About the Citizens Advice Service

Introduction

Our core principles are: Confidentiality of our client's information, impartiality, free advice and independence from authority.

We aim:

- to provide the advice people need for the problems they face
- to improve the policies and practices that affect people's lives.

We value diversity, promote equality and challenge discrimination.

What does the Citizens Advice service do?

To provide advice....

The Citizens Advice service is a network of charities offering information and advice through face-to-face, phone, email, webchat and online services.

Every year the service helps over 2 million people with more than 7 million problems relating to issues including debt, benefits, employment, housing and immigration. Advisers help clients to fill out forms, write letters, negotiate with creditors.

Influence policy....

We are not just here for times of crisis - we also use clients' stories anonymously to campaign for policy changes that benefit the population as a whole.

The sheer number of clients we see each year means that if there is a recurring injustice out there, it is inevitably being played out in our interview rooms and recorded on our database of client evidence. This database is analysed by the national policy team, who are then able to bring problem areas to the attention of those who are - often inadvertently - causing them.

About Citizens Advice Harrow

At Citizens Advice Harrow, volunteers are at the heart of the service we provide to people in the local community.

*Our office is open to the public between 9:30 am to 4:30 pm, Monday to Friday.

Our telephone service is available between:

Mon & Tues: 9:30 am – 3:30 pm

Thurs & Fri: 9:30 am – 1:00 pm

Most of our volunteers provide generalist information and advice, but we offer specialist services in debt and money. We are fortunate to have engaged the services of a number of local solicitors offering free initial legal advice.

Volunteering at Citizens Advice Harrow

You are reading this booklet because you have expressed an interest in volunteering with us. This is a worthy intention, and one which could change your life, as well as the lives of the clients you work with. But it is not a decision which should be undertaken lightly. The impact on our clients of the advice we give is immeasurable, and that means the quality of advice must be of the highest standard. All advisers are highly trained and supported by experienced supervisors. The Citizens Advice Learning Programme is highly regarded because it is rigorous and demanding, and as such the information support assistant & adviser roles require a level of commitment over and above that of most volunteering roles. But those who rise to the challenge find it worthwhile and rewarding beyond their expectations.

If you are looking for a less demanding role, but one which is nonetheless stimulating and rewarding, you may be interested in a supporting role such as administration or reception. These roles are vital to the smooth running of the service and to ensure that our clients have a positive experience of their visit.

There is more information about the various opportunities available, and any questions you may have about them, in the following pages.

Volunteer roles: Information Support Assistant

Information Support Assistants see clients face to face and speak to them over the telephone.

They provide an initial diagnostic service, identifying the issue and the most appropriate next steps the client can take towards resolving it. An information support assistant will typically see up to five clients in a morning or afternoon session, using information on the Citizens Advice public website www.citizensadvice.org.uk as well as other resources, to assist the client. At the conclusion of the interview, the client will have been given information to help them progress their enquiry, signposted to another organisation for further help, or made an appointment for generalist or specialist advice.

Information support assistants can also work on supporting AdviceLine and email to provide a similar service to clients who make contact with us this way.

Volunteer roles: Adviser

Advisers explore the client's problem in more detail, providing in-depth advice which often requires extensive research. An adviser will help the client identify their rights and responsibilities, the options available to them, and the most appropriate action to take. Advisers are trained to use a comprehensive information system exclusive to Citizens Advice, and have access to specialist support in all the main enquiry areas. An adviser will typically see two clients in a morning or afternoon session, with each interview lasting 45 minutes to an hour.

How long does it take to train to be an adviser or information support assistant?

At Citizens Advice Harrow, all our advisers undertake information support assistant training initially. Some volunteers will then continue in the information support assistant role, while others will undertake further learning to become advisers.

The Learning Programme is a competency based modular programme, comprising individual study, observation activities, group sessions and external training courses. A variety of methods is used to assess competence at various points during the programme, and a certificate is issued on completion.

At Harrow we deliver the programme over a 10-12 week period of weekly group sessions supported by individual study. This is followed by a further period of learning while working with clients. The time it takes to complete the learning programme depends on how much time each volunteer is able to commit. As a guide, an information support assistant volunteering for one day every week could be fully trained in nine months, and adviser training will typically take a further year of study and working with clients before full competence is reached.

What skills and experience do I need?

Our volunteers come from a wide range of backgrounds and cultures; they bring a wealth of different skills, knowledge and experience with them. We celebrate the diversity of our volunteers, which reflects the community we serve. We do not prescribe any previous knowledge or experience, because we provide comprehensive training and support; however, much of the work we do is computer based, so a reasonable level of proficiency in using information technology is required.

How much time do I need to commit?

Being a volunteer adviser or information support assistant is a serious commitment, and we ask all prospective volunteers to carefully consider whether their individual circumstances are compatible with a regular, long term volunteering role before applying. We invest considerable resources in training and developing volunteers in these roles, in the expectation that they will make a long term contribution to the service we provide to our clients.

For the information support assistant role, we ask our volunteers to be available on a regular weekly basis for at least one day per week (or two half day sessions) for a minimum period of one year. For the adviser role the requirement is two days a week but for a minimum of two years. During the initial stage of the training programme you may find that the volume of learning requires a little more of your time than this, but the learning materials are online and some can be completed at home.

If you would like to volunteer but you can't make a long term commitment, you can still make a valued contribution to our service. Please see below for more information about the other volunteering opportunities available at Citizens Advice Harrow.

Volunteer roles: Receptionist/Administration Assistant

Receptionists are the public face of Citizens Advice Harrow, and play a key role in determining our clients' experience of their contact with us. They welcome visitors and explain how the service operates. They liaise with other roles within the service, manage the reception area, support vulnerable clients, input confidential client data and respond to general enquiries.

Receptionists do not give advice, but they can help clients find information on the tablet computers in the reception area.

There are a wide variety of admin tasks which support the work of the service, from the inevitable filing to answering the telephone, calling clients to confirm appointments, and supporting specialist advisers and caseworkers.

Other volunteer roles

If none of the above roles appeal to you but you have a particular interest or skill which you would like to put to good use, you can still offer your services as a volunteer and we will try to match you with a suitable opportunity. Some examples would be people with marketing or fundraising experience could help us with publicity or fundraising events. People with experience in communications could help us develop and maintain our social media presence, and someone with an interest in research and campaigns could get involved with some of our campaigning or policy work.

If you can't commit to regular or long term volunteering but you feel you have a contribution to make, ask us how you could help and we will work with you to develop a suitable opportunity for you.

Our policy on convictions

Having a criminal record is not in itself a barrier to volunteering, and we will only take relevant convictions or sexual offences into account. Our policy is in place to make sure ex-offenders are treated fairly. We consider each offence individually, looking at issues like risk to the client, how long ago it took place, the circumstances and whether they are relevant to the volunteer role.

Anyone with a caution or conviction for a sexual offence against a child or vulnerable adult is considered unsuitable to volunteer.

Please answer the question below:

Have you had any previous convictions not regarded as spent under the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974? For more information see: http://hub.unlock.org.uk/knowledgebase/a-simple-guide-to-the-roa/	Yes / No
If YES please provide details of the offence and the date of conviction:

If you are concerned about this and would like to discuss your individual circumstances further, please contact volunteer@citizensadviceharrow.org.uk

Entitlement to work or volunteer

If you are not a UK or Irish citizen, it's important you check you are permitted to volunteer or carry out 'unpaid work' in addition to your main reason for entering the country, to avoid jeopardising your visa status.

If you cannot find the answer clearly on your immigration documentation, contact the UK Border Agency (www.gov.uk/contact-ukvi-inside-outside-uk)

EU/EEA nationals from other countries are entitled to volunteer if they have one of the following statuses to volunteer:

- Pre-settled status
- Settled status
- A visa status that allows volunteering (as outlined on the NCVO website: www.knowhow.ncvo.org.uk/your-team/volunteers/recruiting/volunteers-from-overseas)

How did you hear about this opportunity? For example, national Citizens Advice recruitment campaign, local Citizens Advice website, another website, word of mouth, through your local community or volunteer centre, through your university or college, through the Open University, at a volunteering fair or event, through your own experience accessing the Citizens Advice service, or other?
When did you last use the Citizens Advice service? Former clients can, and do, make excellent volunteers in a range of roles and having been a recent user of our services isn't necessarily a barrier to volunteering. There can be times where we might feel a gap between using our services and becoming a volunteer would be appropriate, but this is something we would discuss with you.

How we will use your information

The information you give us on this form will be used to help us decide whether to recruit you as a volunteer - this is our 'legitimate interest' under data protection law. It will only be seen by staff involved in the recruitment process, and will be stored securely. We will retain unsuccessful application forms for up to 1 year from the date the application form was received.

If you are recruited we will retain your contact information in order to involve and support you. We will also collect additional information, such as next of kin details, and over time records of training, support meetings and where relevant, appraisals. Again, it will be kept securely, and only those people who need to see your information in order to involve you will have access to it.

All use of volunteer information will be relevant to their involvement, and may include:

- Contacting volunteers when necessary
- Making changes to role, support or equipment to improve accessibility
- Monitoring statistical details of our volunteers
- Providing ongoing support to volunteers
- Monitoring the quality of advice given to clients
- Addressing problems or complaints

You have legal rights over your data, including access to it, and the right to ask that it is corrected, restricted or deleted. There is more information on these rights on the Information Commissioner's Office website: www.ico.org.uk

If you have any questions about the use of your data, please contact:

Volunteer diversity monitoring information

Background

Citizens Advice values diversity, promotes equality, and challenges discrimination. We welcome and encourage volunteer applications from people of all backgrounds, age, disability, gender, gender identity, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sexual orientation.

Monitoring recruitment and selection procedures is one way that helps us to ensure that there is no discrimination in our recruitment process. To do this we need to know about the diversity profile of people who apply for volunteer roles at Citizens Advice Harrow.

Data protection overview

If you are happy to provide it, we will use this information for the sole purpose of allowing us to monitor equality of opportunity and treatment as necessary to maintain or promote equality within Citizens Advice Harrow.

The information you give us will be kept securely, won't be shared outside the service and is confidential.

It will not be seen by anyone responsible for making recruitment decisions or have any impact on you directly.

If you are successful in your application and we require this information for other purposes, you will be asked to provide it separately - i.e. this form will not be used for other purposes.

If you would prefer not to answer any of the questions we ask, please leave them blank. If you would like us stop using the information you provide, please contact us.

Note on accessibility: If you are using keyboard only and need to put a cross in the relevant box, you should be able to arrow across, and type in the box. If this is not possible put a cross next to the relevant box. If you need this form in another format please contact Citizens Advice Harrow.
